The University of Manchester Archaeological Unit would like to thank the following people and organisations whose support is a vital part of the continuing success of the excavations at Mellor:-

The Heritage Lottery 'Your Heritage' Fund and Stockport Borough Council for their financial support of the project. The Mellor Archaeological Trust for organising the open weekends and many other events which publicise and disseminate the results of the excavations. The Friends of Mellor for their support and commitment of time, energy and finances to the excavations and events. John and Anne Hearle, Peter Hodgeson and Charlie Bowden for allowing excavations to take place on their land. Norman Redhead the Assistant County Archaeologist for Greater Manchester for his advice and guidance during the excavations. The Mellor Parish Centre for the use of their facilities during the excavation. Dave Watson and Paul Hudson for the donation of machinery to assist with the excavation and backfilling. Graham Hudson and John Hodgeson for their time, skill and patience in driving the machines. Last but by no means least thanks are due to all the people who volunteered on the excavation and open weekend in 2003 and made them such successful and enjoyable events.
